[From the N. Y. Sun, Thursday.] The general belief is that between perjury, concealment, and the absence of rigid examination in the committee, the crust of this huge fraud and plunder has only been broken. It is not possible that such vast and profitable speculations could have passed without paying larger tolls than are already proved, or implicating more persons. Whether the present inquiry will unearth others who are justly suspected.

CALDWELL'S "HONOR AS A SENATOR." and Elections reflectantly consented to postpone the close of Caldwell's case until next Monday, to allow his counsel to make a printed argument. The books of Scott & Co., of Leavenworth, Caldwell's bankers, were examined by the committee this morning, and it appeared that about the time of Caldwell's election Scott & Co., cashed for him checks on Jay Cooke & Co., amounting to $15,000. In his formal statement Caldwell squarely denied the statements which are proved by these disclosures. When the chairman asked his counsel to-day whether Caldwell wished to swear to room, and Mr. Crozier, the counsel, replied that he had not consulted Mr. Caldwell, and did not know, Caldwell came in a few minutes later and replied to the same question that he had talked over the matter with his statement "on his honor as a Senator." This saves him cross-examination and a possible trial for alleged

We learn from Captain Garrison, of the steamer Murchison, that two men, one white and the other colored, in attempting to cross the Cape Fear on gress, whom Grant wanted to make last Sunday morning from the west side of the river at Dunham's to the swamp on the east side, had their boat capsized and were in the water four hours clinging to the overturned skiff. A Schooner Burned at Sca and an-By arrivals here Tuesday from Smithville and from Captain Potter of the steamer Waccamaw, we learn the following: On Monday about dusk a dense smoke was seen from Smithville to arise to the northward of Frying Pan Shoals, but night came on and nothing further was thought of the matter until this morning, when observation revealed the fact that a fore-andaft schooner was beached on a point to the northward of Cape Fear and still in flames. The revenue cutter soon steamed up and went to her assistance, but up to the time of our writing nothing further had been heard from her. The name of the schooner or her counsel and concluded to simply make destination, was unknown to Captain Potter, but it is thought from the direction in which she was making, that she was bound for this port.

Capt. Potter also reports an unknown schooner ashore on Cape Hatteras. The Waccamaw left here yesterday morning for the purpose of going to the assistance of both wrecks, but up to the time of going to press had not returned.
